

WHAT CUSHING CARES FOR US

In Election Campaign Speech in Calgary, Ex-Minister Showed Some Facts

HOW HE FAVORED CALGARY

With Population of 7 per cent. of Province Southern City got 20 per cent. of Expenditure.

The following is an extract from a speech delivered in Calgary during the last general election campaign and reported in the Calgary Albertan of March 22. Just what reference the speech may have to the present political situation the reader is left to determine, but attention might be particularly drawn to the statement setting forth what proportion of the expenditure of the Public Works Department went to Calgary and what generous treatment Calgary received at the hands of the ex-Minister of Public Works.

The speech is as follows:

To the Electors of Calgary:

Gentlemen—On Monday next you will be called upon to perform the most sacred function of citizenship, the marking of your ballot to select your servants in the provincial parliament of Alberta. During the last few days so much has been said about to cloud the issue, that we desire once more to direct your attention to the real questions that are before the electors.

The Rutherford administration, which we support, has given this province honest government. It has been energetic and progressive. Though it has spent millions of dollars during its short life, no person has questioned one dollar of that expenditure. The money has been expended wisely and well. It has been progressive, but it has not been extravagant.

No whisper of scandal has been raised. The government has established perhaps the best school system in Canada. It has met the needs of the public by constructing public works of a superior quality. It has looked well to the interests of the agriculturists. It has kept pace with the rapid development of the province and in every instance has done its part.

These are facts which are not questioned by our opponents. They are recognized throughout the province, and already before election is on nine candidates have been returned without opposition, and in ten other ridings no opposition is in the field. That means the return of the government without the slightest shadow of a doubt.

MAN STRUCK BY FLYING TRAIN

C. F. Bentley Overlaken on G. T. R. Tracks—In Serious Condition at Public Hospital.

With his head and back badly injured as the result of being struck by a G.T.P. engine this morning, C. F. Bentley, of this city, is lying in the public hospital in a serious condition. Bentley is a young man of about twenty-eight years of age, and lives out near the packing plant. It appears he started to walk in this morning in order to catch the G.T.P. train. He walked along the track in order to save time, and had come about half way when a G.T.P. train came up behind him. Bentley apparently did not hear the approach of the train, and the engine struck him with such force as to throw him several yards off the track. The wonder is that the unfortunate man was not killed instantly.

The train was brought to a stop and the train crew took care of the man and summoned Dr. H. H. Hyslop. When the doctor arrived he had the injured man removed to the public hospital.

The accident occurred on the G.T.P. track near Government avenue.

TWO HOLD-UP MEN ARE ARRESTED

Fernie Police Make Capture of Suspected Coal Creek Robbers and Implicate Provincial Detective

Fernie, B.C., March 11.—Two men, Bolander and Nat. Balmcock, suspected of being principals in the daring hold-up of Quinny and Burns, the Tellico Wood Men at Coal Creek, on the night of the 19th of February, at which time the robbers secured $1,000 in cash and some cheques and fled, were arrested here last night by Acting Chief of Police Bowen, and Constable Gorman.

DEPOSITORS DREW $1,225 A MINUTE

Cleveland Bank Made a Record of Handling Withdrawal of $1,250,000 in 2 1/2 Days.

Cleveland, March 12.—After as vigorous a run upon a banking house as has ever been known in Cleveland, the stampede depositors of the Savings Bank gained their equilibrium this morning the panic was over. In the two days and a half that the run lasted $1,250,000 was paid out at the rate of $1,225 a minute. As the majority of the deposits affected were small ones, hundreds amounting to less than $100, the record made by the bank in handling this withdrawal is regarded as remarkable.

Lightning Bolt Killed Horse.

Ottawa, March 12.—Ten horses belonging to the firm of Eldred and Houghton, were killed by lightning as they stood in their stalls at one of the company's camps eighty miles north of Maniwaki on Sunday night. The horses were all valuable animals and the loss will be nearly $2,000.

BLACK HAND IN CALGARY

Calgary, March 12.—The Black Hand is busy in Calgary. Two merchants, J. O'Neil and Gelin, have received letters signed "Black Hand," threatening death unless they leave $25,000 in a certain place. The residents placed the letters in the hands of the police. Officers think that attention was directed to him because he recently received a considerable sum of insurance money following a fire in his store.

WEAK POINTS IN NEW MOVE

Asquith Will Have to Re-sign in Six Weeks but Balfour will Refuse Office

FINANCIAL DEADLOCK CREATED

Redmond Will Vote for Budget if Sure Lords Will be Robbed of Their Vote—How to Accomplish it.

London, March 12.—"Look for Redmond's vote to be secured by the introduction of Lloyd George's budget; proposition to Asquith for only six weeks supply and so create a financial deadlock about the middle of May when the resignation or defeat of the ministry is expected."

Redmond will vote for the budget if he is sure the lords will be robbed of their vote and he thinks he secures this end by forcing the ministry to state to a standstill when they come at death grips with the lords, six weeks hence.

The Times thinks it is rather a contemptible and pure bluff of the ministers' tactics to visualize the situation somewhat as it follows that within six weeks the lords will have indicated their refusal of the veto proposals of the ministry and Asquith cannot rely on dissolution because of the immediate discontinuance of supplies. He can only resign and Balfour will be sent for by the King, but will refuse to accept office because of the opposition majority which refuses supplies. Asquith, or an alternative Liberal, will then be sent for and he will accept the resumption of office only on the King's guarantee to coerce the lords.

Its weak points are the assumption that Balfour would thank office and that the constitution provides no means of carrying on the government of the King, even temporarily without formal parliamentary authority for the formal of public service. The Pall Mall Gazette today calls for Balfour's immediate return from his golfing ball at Cannes.

A practical joker is abroad in London, and it probably will not be long for him if either Winston Spencer Churchill, secretary for home affairs, or several other members of the parliament and various civil leaders catch sight of him.

The usual calm about Mr. Churchill's residence was disturbed by the approach of a cavalcade of 200 wagons. Arriving in front of the house of the home secretary, they turned and backed up to the curb. Despite the protest of the servants that no coal had been ordered, the drivers insisted on dumping their coal and it was only after repeated telephone calls that the dealers came to the conclusion that they had been hoaxed and ordered their men to return to the coal yards. Investigation showed that several members of parliament had the same experience as Mr. Churchill.

The New Seventeenth St. School

Work on the new public school on Seventeenth street, will be started on Monday. The school when completed will cost $20,000, and will occupy the whole block enclosed by Seventeenth, Ashdale, Sixteenth and Pace avenues.

G. E. Turner, architect, and building commissioner, for the board, has prepared the whole of the specifications, plans and details, and the resultant building should grow well up to the excellent standard of the public schools in the city, and in some respects, shows a great advance in ideas.

The new school will be the largest primary school in the city and has twelve class rooms, each accommodating fifty scholars, in addition to there are large play rooms, manual training room in the basement, and a large assembly hall on the third floor. The teachers are well provided for, the principal's office being on the first floor, while on the floor above there is a library, a teacher's room and also a retiring room.

The class rooms are well arranged for the scholars to have left hand light, and each has its own cloak room attached.

A noteworthy feature in connection with the building and an innovation compared with other schools in this part of the country, will be the fire-proof staircases, which are in separate wings, separated from the main corridors by means of fire-resisting screens, and which should prove an excellent means of egress from the upper floors in case of fire.

Externally the design of the building is different from that of the other schools, the building commissioner, having adopted the Tudor Gothic style of architecture to his requirements, and as can be seen, he has a building which will in every way rank high among the public buildings of the city.

THE POLITICAL SITUATION

For over a month the kaleidoscope has been working zealously in the political conditions of the province.

The government faced the legislature with a nominal following of 37 and in about a week there were rumors of disintegration that were absolutely bewildering. Hon. Mr. Cushing retired from the government and formed a "cave" into which he succeeded in drawing a fairly strong following, and under the able leadership of Mr. Bennett, succeeded in causing a division in the House in which the government were sustained by a majority of 8—the vote stood 23 to 15.

Then it was thought that the worst was over, but, like a bolt from the blue, came the reported resignation of the Attorney-General, caused by the fact that overtures had been made to Mr. Cushing to return to the cabinet, and then the regulars went up in the air and it looked as though all was over but the shouting, so far as the administration was concerned.

But like the proverbial darkest hour before dawn, light broke for the government party by the too-zealous action of some of the government opponents. It is said that Mr. Boyle, who was slated for the Attorney-Generalship in the Cushing administration, was anxious to do a little missionary work on his own account, and it was arranged that the secretary of the licensed victuallers would be sent for to endeavor to line up two members of the House who, it was believed, had connection with the association.

Whether that be so or not, Mr. Weir arrived on the scene on Thursday night by the late train and was received at the Cecil Hotel with open arms by Mr. Boyle. That night an attempt was made by Mr. Boyle to entice Mr. Broadbent from his allegiance. Mr. Boyle and another man saw Mr. Shaw, of Stettler with the same object.

It is said that Mr. Boyle promised better terms to the licensed victuallers in the event of Mr. Cushing being called upon to form an administration, in which of course Mr. Boyle would preside over the license department. But the game did not work and the offers made were rejected with scorn.

The story leaked out and the attempt at intrigue was so resented even by the members who had not approved the action of the premier in desiring to recall Mr. Cushing to the cabinet that they gradually began to get together and when it became apparent that the Attorney-General would once more enter the arena and fight the fight to a finish, all doubt of the government being sustained vanished and the ranks of the regulars closed up.

Today the administration is stronger in sentiment and devotion to the promotion of provincial development than ever before and although numerically weaker, is better than ever prepared to carry on the legislation of the province.

More than a month already has been spent by the legislature in frivolous jangling and it is to be hoped that, now that the political air has been cleared, the entire work of the session will be closed within the next three or four weeks.

Cardiff, Wales, March 12.—The bursting of a dam at the Old Colliery at Bilsallch in Rhondda Valley has flooded the village lying below, and destroyed many houses, and rushed into a school having nine hundred pupils, who narrowly escaped drowning. ## SOLD CIGARETTES TO YOUNG BOYS

Five Restaurant Keepers Appeared in Police Court This Morning and Pleaded Guilty

Magistrate Cowan held "forenoon" court this morning, when a Jap, a German, two Chinese and an American were each fined $5 and costs for selling cigarettes to young boys. The culprits were nearly all restaurant keepers, as follows: Thomas Suzuki, 853 First street, Togo restaurant; Mah Lion, 300 Jasper avenue west, Victoria restaurant; Mar Key, 127 Queens avenue, Capital Restaurant; William Smith, 499 First street, Alberta Lunch Counter; and Fred Plannmuller, 633 First street, Savoy pool room.

Sergeant McCullum and Detective Seymour, accompanied by two small boys, have been on the trail of restaurant keepers for the past week, but out of thirty or more places they visited the above five sold the boys cigarettes. The method employed was to give the two boys enough money to buy a couple of boxes of cigarettes, and send them into the restaurant or store, while the two officers waited outside, and watched proceedings through the window.

All except Thos. Suzuki pleaded guilty to the charge in court this morning. Suzuki pleaded not guilty, and was defended by J. A. McDonald, but in the estimation of his worship, the evidence against him was too conclusive and he was found guilty. He had to pay $4.75 costs, while the others were only assessed $1.

CLARKE CONFERRED WITH AYLESWORTH

Legal Aspect of A. and G. W. R. Agreement was Discussed but Minister of Justice was in No Way Connected

The conference concerned the legal aspect of the chaotic conditions, which face the railway as a result of recent development in the Alberta government. Mr. Aylesworth denies unreservedly that the Minister of Justice was in any way connected with the conference and denies that he was informed of the matter.

To Daniel Horvitz, who also pleaded guilty, the court meted out a eighteen months term in the House of Correction in this city; Wm. Broadbent, who was sentenced some days ago, must meet like punishment with Breychak.

GOVERNMENT STILL STANDS

Hon. C. W. Cross Back in Cabinet and Rutherford Has a Majority of Members

HOUSE STOOD 20 TO 17.

Riley Forced Division on Want of Confidence and Inaugurates Had Two Gains—Buchanan is Private Member

A sensation unparalleled in political events was sprung yesterday when the Rutherford administration, on the verge of annihilation evolved from its intricate position with the Attorney-General Cross recused himself to the cabinet and Premier Rutherford prepared to enter the House with three of his Ministers.

The crowd gathered in the gallery was for the most part unprepared for such an event. Attorney-General Cross was loudly cheered to enter the cabinet and took his seat. The Premier seemed quite confident and his face had something of old time complacency. Hon. W. A. Buchanan took a seat as a private member.

As usual just before adjournment Mr. Bennett asked for an explanation of the political situation in respect to the reported resignation of two cabinet ministers.

"I still occupy the seat as first minister of this legislature," said the Premier, "and I intend to do so for some time to come. I have accepted no resignations and all the portfolios of the administration are filled except that of the Minister of Public Works which will shortly be filled."

Mr. Bennett heckled the Premier to draw from him some statement but the Premier replied that he had a government and did not have to go to the junior member of Calgary for advice.

"I might have been better for you if you had," replied Mr. Bennett.

"Has the Attorney-General resigned?" Has the honorable member for Leitchridge resigned? Can't you tell us that?" came from Mr. Bennett.

Without deigning to reply the Premier finished his endeavor to move an adjournment until Tuesday.

The business of the House proceeded in regular routine from the time the speaker took the chair until Attorney-General Cross rose to move the second reading of the act respecting towns. Mr. Riley rose immediately to move an amendment that all words after "Resolved" be struck out and there be substituted "That this bill be read this day six months, as this house has no longer any confidence in the government."

A division followed with the keenest interest prevailing. The government was sustained by a majority of three with the vote standing at 20 to 17 as follows:

For—Bennett, Buchanan, Michener, Riley, Cushing, Glenardine, McLean, Warnock, McDougall, Campbell, Holden, Roberts, Smith, Stewart, Boyle, McKenney, Hoadley.

to their faces. "They could scarcely believe their eyes. The enemy!" He was smiling broadly as he lifted his helmet, smiling in spite of the discomfort that showed so plainly in Depplingham's manner.

Chase was warmly welcomed by the two heirs. Lady Agnes was especially cordial. Her eyes gleamed joyously as she lifted them to meet his smiling gaze. She was pleasantly pretty. The conviction that Chase had mistaken her for Lady Agnes the evening before took a fresh grip upon the mind of the Princess Grace. A shameless wave of relief surged through her heart.

"Class was presented to Drusilla Browne, who appeared suddenly upon the scene, coming from no one knew where. There was a certain staid look in the Bostonian face and a suspicious redness near the bridge of her little nose.

"It's very good of you," said the enemy after all of them had joined in the invitation. "Why is it that I am more fortunate than your own sisters? I am but a humble lawyer."

"I haven't heard of you. You would mind telling me why I am honored by an invitation to sit at the table with you?" The touch of easy sarcasm was softened by the frank smile that went with it. Depplingham felt it his duty to explain.

"It's—It's—oh, yes, it's because you're a diplomat," he finally remarked in triumph. "It was a grand reward, thought he. 'Saunders is an ass, and he'll be the one if Browne could only admit it, as I do. Rubbish! Don't let that trouble you. Eh, Browne?'

"Bessies," said Bobby Browne. "I haven't heard of you. You would mind telling me why I am honored by an invitation to sit at the table with you?" The touch of easy sarcasm was softened by the frank smile that went with it. Depplingham felt it his duty to explain.

"That is my home, princess. It is the first time I have seen it from your point of view, Lady Depplingham. I must say that it doesn't seem as far from the chateau to the bungalow as it does from the bungalow to the chateau. There have been times when the chateau seemed to be thousands of miles away."

"When I really it was at your very feet," she said, with a bright look into his eyes. For some unaccountable reason Grace resented that look and speech.

"Is that really where you live?" she asked, so innocently that Chase had difficulty in controlling his expression. At that instant something struck sharply against the stone column above Chase's head. At least three persons saw the little puff of smoke in the villa far to the right. Every one heard the distant crack of a rifle. The bullet had dropped at Chase's feet before the sound of the report came floating to their ears. No one spoke as he stooped and picked up the warm, deadly missile. Turning it over in his fingers, he said coolly, although his cheek had gone white:

"With Von Blitz's compliments, ladies and gentlemen, he is calling on me by proxy."

"Good God, Chase," cried Browne, "they're trying to murder us! Get back, every one! Inside the doors!" "I'm sorry to bring you trouble to your door," said Chase. "It was meant for me, not for any of you. The man who fired that did not intend to kill me. He was merely giving voice to his pain and regret at seeing me in such bad company." He was smiling calmly and did not take a single step to follow them to safety.

markman. I can't stay here and wait for it to come. How easy!" "He's been there for ten minutes, princess," said Browne—"plenty of time for another try."

Before they were aware of her intention, the princess left the shelter and boldly walked across the open space to the side of the man. He started and opened his lips to give vent to a sharp command.

"It is so easy to be a hero, Mr. Chase, when one is quite sure there is no real danger," she said, with distinct irony, in her tone. "One can afford to be melodramatic if he knows his part so well as you know yours."

Chase felt his face burn. It was a direct declaration that he had planned the whole affair in advance. He flicked the ashes from his cigarette and then tossed it away, hesitating long before replying:

"Nevertheless I have the greatest respect for the courage which brings you to my side. I dare say you are quite worthy of your opinion. It is at most seen very theatrical to you. I had not thought of it in that light. I shall now retire from the center of the stage. It will be perfectly safe for you to remain here—just as it was for me."

He was leaving her without another word or look. She repeated, "I am sorry for what I said," she said eagerly. "And," she looked up at the hills with a sudden widening of her eyes—"I think I shall not remain."

"Aught to suggest to the occurrence, but I don't think to impress upon the others the fact that it was prophetic of more serious events in the future. In a perfectly cold, calm manner he told them that the islanders might rise against them at any time.

"The people are angry, and they will become desperate. Their interests are mine, of course. I am perfectly sincere in saying to you, Lady Depplingham, and to you, Mr. Browne, that in time they will win out against you in the courts. But they are impatient! They are not the kind who can wait and be content. It is impossible for you to carry out the provisions of the will, and they know it. That is why they resent the delays that are impending."

Depplingham told him of the scheme proposed by Saunders, treating it as a vast joke. Chase showed a momentary sign of uneasiness, but covered it instantly by laughing with the others. Strange to say, he had been instructed from London to look out for just such a coup on the part of the heirs—not that the marriage could be legally established, but that it might create a complication with involving lives.

He could not help looking from Lady Depplingham to Bobby Browne, a calculating gleam in his gray eyes. How very dangerous she could be! He was quite ready to feel very sorry for pretty Mrs. Browne. He sat opposite to the princess. His eyes were fixed on her face, and he was watching her blood was coursing through his veins. And yet his head was calling his heart a fool.

CHAPTER XV.
THE PRINCESS GOES GALLOPING.
A WEEK passed—an interesting week in that few things happened openly, but in which the entire situation underwent a subtle but complete change. The mail steamer brought disconcerting news from London. Chase was obliged to tell the islanders that notice of a contest had been filed. The local heirs had pooled their resources and were now fighting side by side. The matter would be in chancery for months, even years. He could almost feel the gust of rage and disappointment that swept over the island, although not a word came from the lips of the sullen population. The very silence was ominous.

way—him and Drusilla. Awful, isn't it? And, say, by the way, the chambers is getting to dislike you intensely."

"I can't help it if he loves the only stenographer on the island," said Chase easily. "You seem to be the only one who isn't in hot water all the time, Britt."

"Me and the princess," said Britt ironically. Chase looked up quickly, but the other's face was as straight as could be. "If you were a real gentleman you would come around once in awhile and give her something to talk to instead of about."

"Does she talk about me?" quite steadily. "They all do. I've even heard the white handmaids discussing you in glowing terms. You're a regular matinee hero up there."

"Selma!" broke in Chase. The Arab came to the table immediately. "Don't put so much liquor in Mr. Britt's drinks after this—mostly water." Britt grinned amiably.

"I say, Britt, you're not responsible for this affair between Browne and Lady Depplingham, are you?" demanded Chase abruptly.

"What do you mean?" "I was just wondering if you could have put Browne up to the game in the hope that a divorce or two might solve a very difficult problem."

"Now that you mention it, I'm going to look up the church and colonial divorce laws," said Britt unconcernedly. "I advise you to hurry, and marry 'em. If you can divorce and marry 'em inside of four weeks, with no court question, the case never comes up, and you are a wonder."

Chase was in the habit of visiting the mines two or three times a week during work hours. The next morning after his conversation with Britt he rode out to the mines. When he reached the brow of the hill, he found the willow trees in which the mine telled, he drew rein sharply and stared ahead at what lay before him.

Fifty hundred feet in the shade of the willow trees, he saw a man in a green coat, he drew rein sharply and stared ahead at what lay before him. Fifty hundred feet in the shade of the willow trees, he saw a man in a green coat, he drew rein sharply and stared ahead at what lay before him.

Chase shuddered. He knew what it meant. "How about Allah now, Selim?" he asked sententiously.

"Allah is great, Allah is good," mumbled the Moslem youth, but without heart.

"Do you think he can save me from those dogs?" asked the master, with a kindly smile.

"Selim, do not go among them today," implored Selim impulsively. "They are expecting me, Selim. If I don't come they will know that I have been hurt. They'll kill me."

"Do not go today," persisted Selim doggedly. Suddenly he started looking intently to the left along the line of the hill. Chase followed the direction of his gaze and uttered a sharp exclamation of surprise.

Several hundred yards away, outlined against the blue sky beyond the hill, stood the motionless figure of a horse and its rider—a woman in a green habit. Chase turned his horse's head and rode rapidly toward her. She had left the road to ride out upon the crest of the green knoll. Chase was in the mood to curse her temerity.

As he came up over the slope she turned in the saddle to watch his approach. He had time to see that two grooms from the stables were in the road below her. She smiled as he drew up beside her, not noticing his unconscious frown.

"So those are the fabulous miles of Japan?" she said gayly, without other greeting. "Where is the red glow from the rubies?" "Who gave you permission to ride so far from the chateau?" he demanded, almost harshly. She looked at him in amazement.

"The dogs! So, you see, princess, you can't trust me to be trusted," said Chase grimly.

"But they have stolen the horses," she murmured irrelevantly. "They take me to the chateau, and I have to report our clandestine meeting."

"Which direction did they take, Selim?" "They rode off by the Carter's high-way, exceedingly toward Ararat."

"It may not appeal to your vanity, your highness, but it is my duty to inform you that they have come to report our clandestine meeting."

"Clandestine! What do you mean, Selim?" "The islanders are watching me like hawks. Every time I am seen with any one from the chateau they add a fresh nail to the coffin they are preparing for me! It's really more serious than you imagine. I must therefore forbid you to ride outside of the park."

"I dare say you are right, Mr. Chase," she said at last, quite frankly, "I thank you."

"I am glad that you understand," he said simply. His gaze was set straight before him, keen, alert, anxious.

"I begin to fear, Mr. Chase," she said, with a faint smile, "that Lady Depplingham decided me in suggesting Japan as a rest cure. It may interest you to know that the court at Ruy-choberg has been very gay this winter. My brother, Christoval, has been with us after two years' absence. He came with his wife from the court of the earth, and my father forgave him in good earnest. Christoval was very discolored in the old days. He refused to marry the girl my father chose for him. Was it not foolish of him?"

"Not if it has turned out well in the end." "I dare say it will—or will. She is delightful. My father loves her. And my father—the grand duke, I should say—does not love those my father chose for him. Was it not foolish of him?"

"I can conceive of no greater fortune than to have been Prince Karl of Brimbois," he said lightly. She smiled a quick glance at his face, her eyes narrowing in the effort to divine his humor.

"As I was saying," she resumed after a moment, "Lady Depplingham has hired me from her showers into the temper. Mr. Chase—and her face lit up with concern—"there truly great danger!"

"I fear so," he answered. "It is only a question of time. I have tried to look out for my own safety. I've crossed Last Night von Blitz, Zambra and three others came to the bungalow and coolly informed me that my services were

"Will you come with me now?" no longer required. I told them to go to the devil."

"I understand," she said quickly. "I required courage to tell them that." He smiled.

"They protested friendship, but I can read very well as I run. But can't we do something more agreeable to talk about? May I say that I have not seen a newspaper in three months? There must be news that you can give me. I am hungry for it."

"You poor man! No newspaper! Then you don't know what has happened in all these months!" "Nothing since before Christmas. Would you like to see a bit of news that I clipped from the last Paris paper that came into my hands?"

"Yes," she said, vaguely. He drew forth his pocketbook and took from its interior a small bit of paper. She read it at a glance and handed it back. A faint touch of red came into her cheeks.

"How very odd! Why should you have kept that bit of paper all these months?" "You have been married nearly three months," he said reflectively—"three months and two days."

HAS BURNS RECENTED? Tells Calgary Alberta That he is Not to Build a $500,000 Plant in Edmonton Just Yet

Mr. P. Burns, who was in the city this week and intimated to the commissioners in the course of an interview with them that he would build a $500,000 plant here this year, went straightaway to Calgary and denied it.

"Maybe some day," said he to the Calgary Alberta, "but not quite yet—'till I would be going a little too fast."

This will set Edmonton people thinking, especially the residents of X-rayed where Burns' slaughter house stands as a public nuisance. It was an excuse for not removing the slaughter house that Mr. Burns unfolded his dream for building a $500,000 slaughter. He even went so far as to suppose the whole morning looking over the city for a suitable site with convenient railway facilities.

"The local manager of P. Burns & Co., when interviewed at the time said that the report was bona fide but that Mr. Burns would wait until the snow left the ground before he chose a site for this $500,000 concern."

THE CONTEST BOOMING IN ALL THE DISTRICTS

A Great Day for the Certificate Holders—New Leaders in Three of the Districts—All the Candidates Doing Well—Extra Vote Offer Closes Monday.

Truncous voting today. Blue certificates to the tune of about 1500 were deposited in the ballot box.

Leadership in the contest again shifts, being held, however, in District No. 1. One candidate in this district votes over 5000 and is second in her district and the county.

No change in the relative positions of the candidates in District No. 2, but the one holding first position increased her lead very materially.

In the shake-up in District No. 3 the candidate holding the high vote ever since the voting has been displaced by the latest entrant in the district.

The Viking candidate, after remaining stationary for about a week, comes across with 3600 of the "precious" blue voting certificates.

Conest Booming. If the volume of business being turned in at the contest department is a criterion—and it certainly is—the active candidates in the Capital's prize voting contest are making strenuous efforts to get all the subscriptions possible before ten o'clock Monday night.

In order to expedite the turning in of subscriptions on Monday and every other day, for that matter—candidates should fill in the report sheets before coming in to turn in the day's business. This rule has not been followed in all cases, but we hope the candidates will get the "habit" from this time on.

It is not necessary to vote the certificates in order to get the increased vote. Contestants at all times control their own voting, and all certificates may be held until the last day of the contest if desired.

Newspaper Coupon Reduced. Commencing Monday the newspaper coupon will be reduced from 5 to 2 votes in The Daily Capital and from 10 to 5 in The Saturday News and Alberta Homestead.

The time for putting forth most effort gathering coupons has passed. The pace is getting too fast to keep up all the time at the disposal of contestants is not used seeking subscriptions. Live candidates have come to the conclusion that time spent in collecting coupons could be much better employed in securing a few subscriptions, which will give the candidate more votes in an hour than could be clipped in four days.

The point is plain. Gathering coupons is no small job and the results obtained are so small compared with the time and money expended in a subscription campaign that it is time—and valuable time—wasted.

Big Vote Offer Closes Monday. In order to allow candidates to take full advantage of the Increased Vote Offer, the contest department will remain open Monday night until ten o'clock, and subscriptions will be received up to that time and the extra votes given.

Candidates in Districts 3 and 4 may mail subscriptions any time Monday and will be given the extra votes on the business received through the mails. This gives all candidates an equal chance.

Candidates should remember that the contest does not close Monday night and that they should not let up in their work. The contest will still have two weeks to go. Take in a few deep breaths, but start out on Tuesday with more vigor than ever. Don't think the field is covered, for it is not. It is a safe wager that the candidates who stop on Monday, thinking they have enough votes to swing the prize, are after will be doomed to disappointment. Don't be overconfident. Better a hundred thousand votes too many than a thousand too few.

VOTING SCHEDULE UNTIL MARCH 14. This schedule will remain in force until the above date, after which a greatly reduced schedule will prevail.

THE STANDING OF THE CANDIDATES IN THE CAPITAL'S PRIZE CONTEST

First Grand Prize—$600 Nordheimer Piano
Second Grand Prize—$450 Nordheimer Piano
The two grand prizes will be awarded to the two candidates securing the largest number of votes on paid-in-advance subscriptions and ballots, irrespective of district in which the candidate lives.

After the grand prizes have been awarded, four prizes will be awarded in District 1, 2 and 4, and three prizes in District 3, to the candidates having the largest number of votes.

Contest Closes Monday Evening, March 28

Hon. W. A. Buchanan who resigned from the cabinet on Wednesday voted against the government as did also Mr. McKenney. This made a gain of two for the insurgents. Mr. O'Brien, Socialist, refused to vote on the question as he desired "to have nothing to do with their squabbles." With these exceptions the vote was the same as on the division on the Wool amendment.

Mr. Smith, Camrose, gave notice of motion for Tuesday next as follows: "Whereas the act incorporating the Alberta and Great Waterways Railway provides that the government shall have the option of purchasing the entire undertaking of the company at any time for the then fair value thereof, as a going concern.

"And whereas, for the purpose of exercising such option of purchase at any future date, it is of the utmost importance that there should be efficient supervision of the actual cost of construction of such railway.

And whereas, the provisions of the agreement between the government and the aforesaid company requiring the approval by the government of all plans and profiles before the said road is proceeded with, have not been observed.

Therefore, he it resolved that this house instruct the government to stay all proceedings in connection with the building of the said Alberta and Great Waterways Railroad, until an independent commission, free from all political control, is appointed, with such powers and duties as may hereafter be fixed by this legislature, to protect the interests of the province, in connection with the building of the said road."

Considerable discussion arose over the second reading of the act to regulate the purchase, sale and transfer of stocks of goods in bulk, introduced by Mr. Riley. Mr. Boyle said, in his opinion, it was not good legislation to interfere with the business relations of people. The bill was introduced last year but was withdrawn, as effect seemed to be to give wholesalers a chattel mortgage on the merchants. This was protecting one man to the disadvantage of another. Not everybody was entitled to a clerk.

Mr. McKenney, Clarendon, said he objected to the bill on principle. If the wholesalers would use discretion in dealing with their customers there would be no need of such an act.

Premier Rutherford said he thought the bill should be taken up in committee of the whole. He favored the bill on the strength of the petitions that had been received.

An explanation of the nature of the act as he saw it came from Mr. Bennett. He said the bill did not propose to give anyone a prior claim over anybody else. All a proposed sale to prevent persons defrauding the whole-sale houses of what was their lawful due. The essential was that any merchant who had a bulk of stock and proposed to sell it, was required to say who were his creditors so that the resultant proceeds of the sale might be divided among them. The act was calculated to prevent legislation subsequent to sale and to see that merchants who sold their stock in trade endeavored to pay their creditors.

Immediately the speaker took the chair, Mr. Stewart, of Selkirk (an insurgent) arose with a bunch of paper in his hand, and spoke as follows: "Mr. Speaker, I wish to refer to a rumor, that I have heard today to the effect that the member for Surgeon (Mr. John R. Boyle) had approached two members of this house who are hotel keepers and holders of licenses and stated to them that if they would switch their votes from Mr. Rutherford's support to that of the new ministry of Mr. Cushing, in which Mr. Boyle was to be Attorney-General, they would be granted immunity from all oppressive features of the License Act being enforced against them."

The speaker: To what is the honorable member referring. I can't hear exactly what he is saying."

Mr. Stewart: "To a story I heard on the street."

The speaker: "Oh, you are out of order with that now."

Hon. Mr. Cross: "You will hear lots of stories on the street."

Mr. Boyle: "May I be permitted?"

The speaker: "Order! Order! There is no matter before the house."

Mr. Boyle: "Well, whatever has been said; I did not quite catch all of it; I wish to give it an emphatic denail."

The rumor to which attention was attempted to be drawn was to the effect that Messrs. Shaw and Bondreau, two members of the house with large hotel interests had been approached by the secretary of the License Victuallers Association and told that if they supported the insurgents and Mr. Boyle as Attorney-General they need have no fear of the license branch.

London, March 12.—A hostile demonstration on the floor of the Cotton Exchange at Manchester and one directly contrasting it for friendliness on the corn exchange at Liverpool were met yesterday by Jas. A. Patten, the Chicago wheat and cotton operator. In the first Mr. Patten was mobbed and probably escaped injury only by being rescued by the police. In the latter he was greeted with cheering manifestations of friendliness.

WHAT CUSHING

RECEIVED FROM SI CARES FOR US

For years the people of Calgary have been calling for railways, and have been fondly hoping for additional railway competition. The Rutherford government, by the guaranteeing of bonds of certain railways and without the expenditure of a dollar, is bringing the railways in large numbers to our very doors.

The Canadian Northern Railway is coming from the north-east, west and south. That gives Calgary an additional transcontinental railway, and opens up a rich district of country directly tributary to Calgary, almost as great in extent as the cultivated portion of the present province. In addition to that the government has given its solemn promise to give the same assistance to the C.N.R. to build the Goose Lake extension, as soon as the company is in a position to build same, which may be during the present year. Similar guarantee is given to the G.T.P. and lines of that veteran road will be found in all parts of the province, as will be seen by the map on another page of this paper.

That is the policy of the Rutherford government which we endorse. Our opponents have no railway policy, but as one candidate is the C.P.R. supporter, and the other an ardent friend of the G.T.P., little but hostility can be expected of any movement for the increase of railway competition.

It is unnecessary for us to ask if you favor additional railways. We present our platform and leave you to judge if it is in the interests of the province.

We draw your attention briefly to the labor legislation of the present administration. It has restored the eight-hour day for miners, which was removed some years ago by our opponent, R. B. Bennett. It has passed the Workmen's Compensation Act, which is the most desirable legislation passed by any province in Canada in the interests of the laboring men. So is the Mechanics' Lien Act, and many others.

The policy of our opponents is one of intense sectionalism and one of hostility to the Rutherford government, which is bound to control the destinies of the province for the next five years. That Calgary has been well treated at the hands of the government will be seen by the following figures:

The total expenditure of the Province of Alberta was $7,000,000 and in Calgary $1,105,647 was spent. Calgary has a population of 7 per cent. of the province, and the expenditure is 16 per cent. of all.

In the Public Works Department, over which Mr. Cushing presides, the total expenditure was $4,423,000, and of this $842,000 was spent in Calgary. Calgary with a population of 7 per cent. of the province got 20 per cent. of the Public Works expenditure.

The total cost of public buildings in Alberta up to date is $720,404, of which Calgary got $316,697, or 44 per cent., and our population is 7 per cent.

These figures are official and have never been questioned. In addition to this we call your attention to the fact that with the exception of the railway to the far north, all of the guaranteed roads are directly tributary to Calgary, and make it the hub of Alberta.

We can assure you that if elected Calgary will be treated fairly by the Rutherford administration.

What is the policy of our opponents for Calgary? Nothing but persistent hostility. We do not believe that at this time, in the present stage of the development of our country and our city that such a policy is the part of wisdom.

Remember the efficient administration of the Rutherford policy, its able and honest work, its railway policy, its fair treatment of all parts of the province, including Calgary, and then mark your ballot, not as a partisan, not as a sectarian, but as the honest citizen of Alberta that you are. We leave it with you.

Shams. Played Overtime

Montreal, Mar. 12.—Last night in the east end rink Shamrocks and Canadians met in the last league game of the National Hockey League fixtures for this season in Montreal. The crowd was small with good ice. Score at half time was Canadians 4, Shamrocks 4. Shamrocks got one goal in the second half and made it a tie. In the play-off Canadians scored in eight minutes, making the final score Canadians 5, Shamrocks 4.

HOUSE OF LORDS SHOULD GO

Says Ramsey MacDonald—Phillip Snowden Does Not Agree.

(Canadian Associated Press)

London, March 7.—Ramsey MacDonald disagrees with the idea of sending veto resolution to the Lords. The bills should be sent them direct. "It is a profound mistake for the Labor party to simply shoot against the Lords for veto, and to sacrifice the budget or place it in jeopardy."

"Another election was folly. The Labor party should make it clear they stood for the abolition of the Lords. If beaten on that would vote for drastic veto proposals."

Philip Snowden, speaking at Cardiff, said the country was not ripe for abolition of the Lords. The Labor party was prepared, therefore, to co-operate with those genuinely desirous of abolishing the veto.

Telegram Forger Gets His

London, March 11.—In Old Bailey court here Frederick Horner was convicted of having forged a telegram sent to the Daily Mail during the recent campaign and was sentenced to six weeks' imprisonment. The despatch received by the Mail over the name of its Falmouth correspondent, told of a hostile demonstration against David Lloyd George. The latter impugned the accuracy of the report and inquiry showed that it had been sent by Horner, who had formerly brought a libel suit against the Mail.

The Most Startling Musical Announcement Ever Made

THE STEINWAY
PIANOLA PIANO

Steinway & Sons recently gave their consent to an arrangement with the Aeolian Company for the building of a Steinway player piano.

The new instrument has been placed on the market and is called the STEINWAY PIANOLA PIANO.

For many years the distinguished firm of Steinway & Sons has made a close study of the player situation—the prominence given to this phase of the piano trade making such investigation compulsory on the part of a house that has always been first in keeping its product in advance of the times.

However, Steinways would not consent to any agreement concerning a player until it was proven beyond doubt that such uniting of the time-honored name of Steinway with that of a player device would add lustre to the Steinway reputation for supremacy.

The announcement of the Steinway Player has already created the most profound interest in musical circles throughout the world, and its unbounded success has been assured from the beginning.

While themselves manufacturers of an extensive line of Pianos, the Aeolian Company have by this uniting of their devices with Steinway Piano placed the approving seal of high piano-trade authority upon the recognized supremacy of the Steinway, since the Steinway Pianola Piano will be the highest type of player offered for sale by this or any other house.

The vast resources of the Steinway house, with its tremendous American and European prestige, stand as a gilt edged security for the perfection of the new instrument.

The Price of the Steinway-Pianola Piano is $1500

THE FIT-REFORM CUP

and loses to Haddeck who rushes and Mac dumps him hard. A moment later the highly travelled Mr. Haddeck gets his physio out and more is delayed five minutes. Scotty McLeod seizes upon this opportunity to get his lip patched up.

J. Leitch sends in one from the rail, on the resumption of play and Winchester stops puck with "skill, accuracy and ease."

Jack Winchester is There.

Gordon Banford draws a sentence and the judge of play has an exciting few moments. Howls of disdain arise from the spectators and several fists are waved in his face with the threat that "they will be bounced on his nose if—". M. Ziegler evidently takes heed to his ways, for he catches Crawford in the act of tripping an opponent and off he goes.

McGannan makes lovely rush and Edmonton look like scoring. Bill and Boulton combine nicely, but pass is offside. Banks takes down boards and kicks the rubber.

Crawford no sooner gets on ice than the following drama is enacted: Edmonton player is tripped, Crawford tries to look innocent; busy judge of play skates up; exit Crawford.

McDowell Gets His.

McDowell gets ambitious and tries a rush, but Deaton does a slight wood chop. Mac sinks gracefully in the ice but bounces up quickly and in a moment Deaton and the Prince Albert man are engaged in a basic carnal with several preliminary bouts going on around. Before the reporters could make a look on the result Referee Barley banished the two gladiators from the stadium.

Just before half-time Gordon came so near to a score that the spectators caught their breath. A delay of five minutes ensues.

Second Half.

Edmonton gets the drop and Scotty takes down and shoots. Haddeck is now playing centre for visitors, changing places with Banks. Gordon Banford passes to Deaton and he scores in three minutes. Blackboard now reads Edmonton 2, Prince Albert 0. The "Greenhorns" stick right to their knitting and Crawford calls on Jack to exercise all his skill. McGannan takes down the limpid lake (ice, ice), and dislodges a piece of paint from goal-post. McLeod catches Mr. Ziegler's eye and retires to private life for a short time. Deaton shoots and McDowell and Bailey are very busy. Haddeck transfers disc to end and in the excitement G. Banford is ruled off for no apparent reason.

Playing five men against eight (we are counting in Mr. Ziegler with the visiting team), Edmonton still had the best of it and Bert goes through opposing team leaving swells behind him like a motor boat. Leach stops the shot. Banks transfers play to Edmonton end and J. Leitch standing unchecked puts one past Winchester. An oppressive silence hangs over everybody.

Bailey gets two minutes for a dirty trip and Deaton and Boulton by united efforts put the rubber in the net. Imagine everybody's disgust when the goal umpire refuses to lift his arm. A bunch of howling Derivishes lean over the gallery and invite said g. u. to come outside. A general altercation takes place and the official is gently but firmly escorted from the ice. The crowd, in no uncertain tone, voice their candid opinion of his eyesight, integrity, etc.

Bailey takes a long shot from point which has a dangerous appearance. Crawford again adorns the side and is now an old acquaintance of the penalty box occupants. "We love our Crawford, but oh! you judge of play!"

Edmonton line shows great speed, Boulton and McLeod being especially prominent. Bailey gets the puck in the head and is tenderly carried to the dressing room. A delay of five minutes ensues.

Bert Boulton Scores.

After being on the defensive Bill takes a long shot. Boulton follows up like lightning, and stealing the rebound hanes the puck into the net. Score 3-1 and prolonged cheering.

McGannan puts in a hard chance and Boulton follows this up with another. Banks takes down rail and Scotty sends him into boards. Time up. Final score 3-1.

A EULOGY OF THE DOG.

With a rabies scare in the province of Ontario many champions of the dog are hastening to defend him from the unkindness of people who are naturally afraid of him. In the circumstances it is interesting to recall a eulogy of the dog which has been preserved as one of the most perfect things of its kind. It was delivered by Senator Vest when serving as attorney in the prosecution of a man who had wantonly shot a neighbor's dog.

"Gentlemen of the jury," he said, "the best friend a man has in this world may turn against him and become his enemy. This son or daughter that he has reared with loving care may become ungrateful. Those who are nearest and dearest to us, those whom we trust with our happiness and our good name, may become traitors to their trust. The money that a man has he may lose. It flies away from him when he may need it most. A man's reputation may be sacrificed in a moment of ill-considered action. The people who are prone to fall on their knees and do us honor when success is with us may be the first to throw the stone of malice when failure settles its cloud upon our heads. The one absolutely unselfish friend a man may have in this selfish world, the one that never deserts him, the one that never proves ungrateful or treacherous, is the dog."

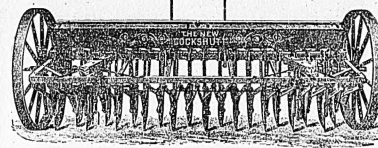

Gentlemen of the jury, a man's dog stands by him in prosperity and in poverty, in health and in sickness. He will sleep on the cold ground, where the wintry winds blow and snow drives fiercely, if only he may be near his master's side. He will kiss that hand that has no food to offer, he will lick the wounds and sores that come in encounters with the roughness of the world. He guards the sleep of his pauper master as, if he were a prince. When all other friends desert, he remains. When riches take wings and reputation falls to pieces, he is as constant in his love as the sun in its journey through the heavens. If for one moment drives the master forth an outcast into the world, friendless and homeless, the faithful dog asks no higher privilege than that of accompanying him, to guard against danger, to fight against his enemies, and when the last scene of all comes and death takes his master in its embrace, and his body is laid away in the cold ground, no matter if all other friends pursue their way, there by his graveside will the noble dog be found, his head between his paws, his eyes sad but open in alert watchfulness, faithful and true even to death."

The plaintiff had sued for $200 damages. When Senator Vest finished speaking, the jury, after deliberating for two minutes, awarded $500.

Fitted with Single Disc, Double Disc or Drag Shoes (Interchangeable)

LIKE lots of other farmers, no doubt you have made up your mind to buy a Drill during the next few weeks. Go slow before you part with your money.

Investigate—ask questions—talk with your neighbors—read our new Drill Booklet—get at the facts—because all these things

The strongest, the lightest draft, and the most accurate machine of its kind. Make a start now—write for our new Booklet today—send your name and address to our nearest office.

NO clogging troubles with these Discs. Notice how the space between head and disc gradually widens from bottom to top. This prevents mud or trash stopping the discs from revolving. Discs are fitted securely to the shaft, keeping them clean at all times.

THIS frame carries the weight of the grain box. It is made of heavy high carbon angle steel, reinforced with malleable corners and steel corner braces. Notice that we have run a heavy I beam across the entire width of the machine to give the frame extra strength and prevent it from sagging in the center. Discs held up in the center by continuous axle always run in the center no matter how well tamped, and in turning the whole weight is not only put on the axle, but one wheel sinks deep into the ground while the other is turning, which makes the drill extremely heavy. The wheels on the Cockshutt Drill are bolted to the short axle, which run in self-aligning bearings and which are set at the correct angle to give proper pitch and gather to the wheels. This accounts for the light draft of the Cockshutt machine. The frame is without doubt, the strongest in any drill.

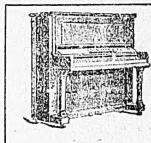

THIS is the concrete side of the Disc. Each disc is 6 inches apart with 7 inches singler. This permits the seeds passing through between the discs without hindering, no matter how wet or sticky the soil. Convey sown seed to the ground without turning it out, which reduces wear and tear.

This chamber is filled with hard oil when buying the farm—and will last a whole season without further attention. You don't need any oil run for the Cockshutt Drill—oil important bearings are fitted with compression grease cups. Thus the Cockshutt Drill is always lubricated and ready for use when you are. But remember you won't find this perfect oiler device in any drill except a Cockshutt. Cockshutt Drills are made in Canada for a Canadian firm who have studied Canadian soil conditions for over 30 years. Write us today for new Drill Booklet or see the Cockshutt Dealer—it will save you money and trouble.
